1.0 Highlights

The highlights of the Q1 2018 IAS are as follows:

- Respondents believe that the economy would end up weaker if prices start to rise faster than they do now.
- Given a trade-off between inflation and interest rates, more respondents prefer interest rates to fall, while inflation rate rises.
- Majority of the respondents are of the view that it would be best for the Nigerian economy if interest rates went down.
- Majority of the respondents are aware that the CBN influences the direction of interest rates to control inflation.

2.0 Introduction

The Central Bank of Nigeria (CBN), aside from its price and monetary stability mandate, is also tasked with supporting the Government's policies on economic growth and unemployment reduction. One of the objectives of the Bank is to build public confidence and support for sustainable economic development and public understanding of the Monetary Policy Committee's roles. This is because the understanding and support by the public towards attaining the objectives of price stability would provide an environment conducive for achieving macro-economic stability.

The Statistics Department, on a quarterly basis since June 2009, conducts the inflation attitudes survey to sample the views of households on how they view the price changes of goods and services in the last twelve months, and their expectations of price changes over the next twelve months. Respondents' opinions were used to explore the general public's understanding of monetary policy framework. This is because inflation expectations and public understanding of what influences them are important parameters for successful monetary policy formulation. Good estimates of inflation expectations and the level of public understanding of the underlying factors would assist the Bank to assess the impact of its efforts in maintaining price stability in the Nigerian economy.

3.0 About the Survey

The Q1 2018 Inflation Attitudes Survey was conducted from March 19 - 24, 2018 from a sample size of 2070 Household randomly selected from 207 Enumeration Areas (EAs) across the country, with a response rate of 83.5 percent.

4.0 Inflation

Respondents were asked what would become of the Nigerian economy if prices started to rise faster than they do now. The survey result showed that 54.7 per cent of the respondents believed that the economy would end up weaker, 11.6 per cent stated that it would be stronger, 16.2 per cent of the respondents believed it would make a little difference, while 17.2 per cent did not know. The responses suggest considerable support for price stability, as majority (54.7 per cent) agreed that the economy will end up weaker. This is consistent with the notion that inflation is constrains economic growth.

When asked how prices have changed over the past 12 months, respondents gave a median answer of 4.7 per cent. Of the total respondents, 16.2 per cent thought prices had gone down or not changed, 61.2 per cent felt that prices had risen least 3.0 per cent, while 16.9 per cent felt that prices inched up by more than 1.0 per cent, but less than 3.0 per cent. Those that had no idea were 5.8 per cent.

The median expectation of price changes over the next 12 months was that prices would inch up by 2.3 per cent. From the total responses, 41.1 per cent of the respondents expected prices to rise by at least 3 per cent over the next 12 months, 14.2 per cent expected prices to increase by more than 1 per cent, but less than 3 per cent. Similarly, 36.9 per cent of the respondents were optimistic that prices over the next 12 months would either go down or remain the same. (Fig. 1, Table 1).

5.0 Interest Rates

The percentage of respondent households who felt that interest rates had risen in the last 12 months fell by 14.7 points to 31.6 points in the current quarter when compared to 56.3 points attained in Q4, 2017. On the other hand, 8.8 per cent of respondents believed that interest rates had fallen, 15.3 per cent of the respondents were of the opinion that the rates stayed about the same in the last 12 months, while 44.3 per cent of the households had no idea. The result revealed that more households perceived that interest on bank loans and savings rose over the past 12 months.

On the expected change in interest rates on bank loans and savings over the next 12 months, more respondents (26.9 per cent) were of the view that the rates will rise, while 17.5 per cent believed that the rates will fall. A net rise value of 9.4 per cent was recorded compared to 6.5 per cent attained in the previous quarter. About 59.6 percent of the respondents either expected no change or had no idea.

Similarly, the respondents were asked whether it would be best for the Nigerian economy for interest rates to rise or fall. The results showed that 41.5 per cent indicated that it would be best for the Nigerian economy if interest rates fell, while 13.3 per cent opted for higher interest rates. The results further revealed that 8.5 per cent thought that it would make no difference, while 36.4 had no idea (Table1). These responses revealed that most of the respondents favored lower interest rates for the Nigerian economy. (Fig 2).

6.0 Interest Rate-Inflation Nexus

Responses on what the impact a rise in interest rates in the short and medium terms would have on prices: 40.2 per cent agreed that a rise in interest rates would make prices in the street rise slowly in the short term, as against 12.3 per cent that disagreed. While in the medium term, 39.2 per cent agreed that a rise in interest rates would make prices in the street rise slowly, 14.0 per cent disagreed (Fig. 3).

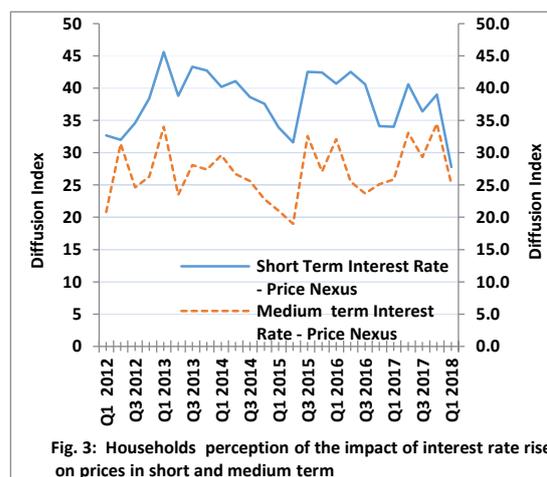

Fig. 3: Households perception of the impact of interest rate rise on prices in short and medium term

Respondents were asked to choose between raising interest rates in order to keep inflation down, and keeping interest rates down to allow prices to rise. Responding, 27.2 per cent preferred interest rates to rise in order to keep inflation down compared to 31.6 per cent who said they would prefer prices to rise faster, while 40.9 per cent had no idea.

These responses suggest that given a trade-off, majority of the people would prefer higher interest rates to higher inflation which is suggestive of the respondent households' support for the Bank's price stability objective (Fig. 4).

7.0 Opinions on the Central Bank of Nigeria

To assess whether people are aware of the way monetary policy works in Nigeria, respondents were asked if they knew which group of people meet to set Nigeria's monetary policy rate. Responding, 24.7 per cent felt it was the Monetary Policy Committee, 10.7 per cent felt it was the Federal Ministry of Finance, 16.5 per cent believed it was the Government, 4.0 per cent felt it was the National Assembly, while 2.2 and 41.9 per cent answered 'others' and 'do not know', respectively.

When asked to identify which group mostly influences the direction of interest rates, the result indicated that majority of the respondents (38.2 per cent) were aware that the Central Bank of Nigeria influences the direction of interest rates. About 9.3 per cent stated that it was the Government ministers, 5.2 and 9.8 per cent were of the opinion that civil servants and Banks influence the rates, respectively, while 37.3 per cent had no idea.

On what best describes the Monetary Policy Committee, 18.8 per cent felt it was influence by the Government, 13.7 per cent felt it was the federal ministry of finance, and 5.4 per cent believed that it was the national assembly, while 14.2 per cent thought it was not influence by any arm of government and 47.7 percent had no idea.

Respondents were asked if they were satisfied/dissatisfied with the CBN's management of interest rates in Nigeria. The net satisfaction index, which is the proportion satisfied less the proportion dissatisfied, was 6.3 per cent compared with 18.6 per cent recorded in Q4, 2017. Among the satisfied group, 6.0 per cent were 'very satisfied' while 22.8 were 'fairly satisfied'. However, 12.8 per cent were 'neither satisfied nor dissatisfied', whereas 14.4 per cent were 'very dissatisfied'. Those who had no idea accounted for 35.8 per cent of the respondents (Fig. 6).
